

The Best Dish on Your Table

Van Camp's Spaghetti, whenever you serve it, will be the best dish on your table.

No matter how competent your cook may be she can't make a dish like this. It's the same with us. Our chefs have been cooking for millions of tables for nearly fifty years.

They have pleased so many that people are spending ten million dollars per year to get their foods.

But they never made anything nearly so popular as this new dish—this wonderful dish of spaghetti.

There are 17 ingredients used in it, but the main ones are these:

Durum wheat spaghetti.
Herkimer County full cream cheese.
Best creamery butter.

The same expensive tomato sauce we use in Van Camp's Pork and Beans.

The recipe is secret. We can't reveal it to you. But we supply it to you ready cooked for less than you could make it.

All you have to do is to heat it.

You may have eaten spaghetti in Rome. You may have your own pet recipe. But you will agree with all the rest that this is the best of all.

Your grocer has it or can easily get it for you. Ask him to send a few cans.

Why Other Vacuum Cleaning Systems Infringe

It needs neither a lawyer nor an engineer to interpret the basic Kenney Vacuum Cleaning Patent. For the patent itself is as clear and as terse as English can be made. It reads:

"In a suction cleaning apparatus, the combination of—a suction nozzle, adapted to be moved over the surface to which it is applied for cleaning, and having a narrow inlet slot;
—a suction creating device capable of maintaining a sufficient vacuum;
—and impurities collecting means, between the nozzle and the suction creating device, and suitably connected therewith for removing impurities from the air."

We claim no patent on vacuum or suction; but to use vacuum as a practical cleaning agent, there must be a slotted tool; there must be some method of separating the dust from the air.

And the combination of these elements is the basic Kenney Patent.

LINEN DRESS.

A pretty tub dress is sketched above. It is developed in natural color linen and trimmed in ecru embroidery and bands of brown linen. The kimono bodice has two wide pleats over the shoulders, the outer one formed of the embroidery while a row of buttons trims the inner pleat. The brown linen is used for the neckband, girdle and band on the short sleeve. There is an undersleeve of the embroidery. The narrow skirt is trimmed with a wide band of the embroidery placed between two narrow bands of the brown linen and decorated with brown crocheted buttons. Hat of natural color straw draped with brown veil.

Graduating Gown.

There are two times in the life of a girl when the subject of a single dress is of momentous importance to her and when all other subjects are relegated to the background until this one is definitely settled. First in point of importance is the bridal gown, but first in point of time is the graduation dress.

The sweet girl graduate is clad in a gown of fairy whiteness, just as a bride is gowned in virginal white. She chooses some sheer, inexpensive material symbolic of her girlhood and carries out the idea of youth in all the accessories of dress. All overdressed girl graduate is a sorry sight, and every mother or guardian should carefully guard against such a mistake. The girl who has pinched through school by dint of many sacrifices and who is wearing a simple little rock of lawn trimmed in tucks is far smarter and more attractive, because her girlishness is accentuated by the simplicity of her dress.

Dotted Swiss is one of the prettiest of the sheer white materials for graduation gowns. It requires little trimming and the plain fabric is as practical, because it launders well. Irish crochet lace can be purchased at reasonable prices at one of the larger stores, and it looks particularly well in the dotted Swiss.

Organdie has lost none of its favor as a typical fabric for the frock of the young girl. Its misty folds float about a slender form in graceful billows, suggestive of springtime. Fine Valenciennes and mechin laces are most effective with organdie and with French lawn or India linen.

Sheerest handkerchief linen is a graduation day frock favorite that has won favor by reason of its softness and its ability to come fresh and new from the tub. Cluny, baby Irish and Irish crochet lace are all appropriate trimmings that help create a fascinating lingerie model.

For the girl who likes something more elaborate there is fine white net. A gown of this kind should be made as simple as possible, the best designs being built with empire waists, wound with supple mesh or bound with a silk cord with tasseled ends. A plain shirring should finish the neck, and if trimming is used at all, it should be brought in.

White shoes of kid or suede should be worn with such a costume. The wearing of gloves is suggested, and the whole of the school or college from which the girl is to be graduated.

Coats are short, but there is no definite length. One can have a bolero, an eton, a jacket to the hips or one six inches below.

OLD-FASHIONED TONIC PROVES BEST

(From National Health Journal.)

Statistics show that not one person in fifty emerges from the strains of winter in good health. Due to various causes the system becomes clogged with impurities and the liver, kidneys and bowels fail to perform their functions properly. As a result, we have faded, sallow, lost appetite, no energy—in fact, feel sick without knowing the cause.

For correcting these disorders there is nothing so far discovered to equal old-fashioned karende tonic which can be made at home at small cost. Dissolve an ounce of karende in one-half pint alcohol, then add one-half cup sugar and hot water to make a quart.

A tablespoonful before each meal renews the system of impurities, brings fever, restores the whole body to its normal, healthy condition.

Making a Scarf.

There is no reason why a girl with a bit of ingenuity cannot have one of the scarfs which are so popular this season without the expenditure of a lot of money. She can make a striking and unusual one by choosing uncommon material and color combinations.

One lovely scarf was made of two and one-half yards of rose fishnet lined with black chiffon. The chiffon was hemmed on the right side and the edges of the hem were finished with a narrow gold openwork braid.

A girl rummaging through an old chest found two yards of velvet in a shade of mesquite, bordered the scarf with white mesquite. She lined it with black mesquite, bought at the remnant counter and bordered it all around with a deep black silk fringe from a doorman that had once been the pride of her grandmother's wardrobe. The result drew glances of admiration wherever she wore the handsome scarf.

Another girl lined two yards of sea green mesquite with peachblow pink mesquite, bordered the scarf with white marabou and caught the ends together with heavy green silk tassels.

A royal blue chiffon remnant was lined with black chiffon dotted with the royal blue in dots the size of a dime. Natural marabou was used to finish the edges and the ends were finished with smart pendent bows of black velvet ribbon.

The Beauty Seeker.

Learning to rest properly is just as essential as learning how to work properly and just as profitable in the end.

To sleep does not necessarily mean to rest. Relaxation is one of the surest ways of resting. Change of scene, change of thought, change of occupation are all forms of rest. The worker in town or city should go into the country as often as possible, and the country girl should have the excitement and bustle of a day in the city once in a while. Both will return stimulated for the change.

The theater is a great rest cure for the woman who is doing brain work or for the housekeeper who is surrounded by the daily routine of household duties. Some have discovered the value of keeping a bit of embroidery, a good book or some favorite magazine within reaching distance, and when weariness overtakes them they read a few pages or embroider a flower or two.

"Catching up" is one of the most effective plans for keeping rested. An afternoon of sleep results in sluggishness, but a few minutes of mental oblivion and bodily relaxation makes for rosy cheeks, clear complexion and bright eyes.

It is a pity that more women do not learn to rest when resting is necessary. The woman who hits down in the midst of household confusion and reads for a few minutes when weary may earn the reputation of being irresponsible, but she is at the same time wiser than the woman who can never "find time."

A Breakfast Menu.

Creamed codfish is a favorite breakfast dish in many families where simplicity is the rule of the morning meal. There is something peculiarly appetizing about this homely dish which recommends it to all tastes, no matter how jaded they may be. A breakfast menu with codfish would be:

Sliced Oranges,
Omelette on Toast,
Brown Potatoes,
Coffee.

Choose sweet navel oranges and remove the outer and all parts of the inner peel. Remove the round ends and slice the orange crosswise with a sharp knife in pieces a quarter of an inch thick. Arrange neatly and dust with powdered sugar.

Creamed Codfish.

In preparing creamed codfish wash a half pound of salt cod. Cover with cold water and soak overnight. Pick apart in the morning, cover with boiling water, bring to the boiling point and drain. Cook again with boiling water and cook slowly about ten minutes, then drain. Put two tablespoonfuls of butter and two tablespoonfuls of flour into a pan, rub smooth, add one pint of milk and stir until it boils. Add the codfish with salt and pepper to taste, stand over hot water for twenty minutes, then stir in the yolk of one egg. Serve on slices of plain toast, from which the crust has been cut.

Browned Potatoes.

Boil new potatoes, small size, in slightly salted water until they are done through. Remove, being careful not to break them. Fry in hot fat until browned on one side, then turn over and brown the other side. Dust very lightly with cayenne pepper and serve with the fish.

Fad for Early Rising.

An early to bed and early to rise is the latest craze of society. The fashion was set by a number of smart women whose physicians held a high opinion of the sacred custom of breakfasting in bed. In favor of the benefits to be derived from an adherence to the old adage, he says: "Practically 90 per cent of us rise an hour too late. Everybody up to the age of sixty years should be downstairs by 7 o'clock. Then a two-mile walk, a ride on horseback or a cycle spin should follow. Lack of money is no excuse, for walks cost nothing but effort."

"If this course were followed there would be a real desire for breakfast—a desire which, I suppose, is absent in 98 per cent of the people who rise late. While it is easy to develop an appetite for subsequent meals of the day, breakfast is different. For several hours one has been in bed, and a fresh supply of oxygen is necessitated. This can only be obtained by genuine exercise before the meal, not by a casual spin on the veranda. "But this early rising is not good unless there is also an early retiring. Bed. Children used formerly to go to bed at 8 o'clock and their parents at 11. Now, the children go to bed at the latter hour and the parents the next morning. If early hours were made the thing, a vast amount of neurasthenia, nervous breakdowns and cases of melancholia would be avoided."

Old-Fashioned Cookies.

Every home in which there are children is equipped with a cookie jar, from the depths of which their fingers draw the goodies that delight their hearts and appetites. If the truth were told the cookie jar is about as great a favorite with the grownups as with the children, and many a table holds cookies as an adjunct of the breakfast cup of coffee. Some favorite recipes are:

Ginger Cookies.

Mix together a half cup of butter and a half cup of lard. Dissolve a teaspoonful of soda in a tablespoonful of boiling water, stir it into one cup of molasses and turn it over the butter and lard. Add one tablespoonful of cinnamon and one tablespoonful of ginger and mix well. Dissolve one cup of brown sugar in a cup of strong boiling coffee and pour into the mixture. Add enough flour to make a soft dough, roll rather thick, cut in the desired shape and bake in a quick oven about fifteen minutes.

Oatmeal Cookies.

Cream one cup of melted butter with two cups of sugar and add two eggs. Put in the mixture a half pint of milk, a half of a nutmeg grated, one teaspoonful of baking powder and enough flour to make a soft dough. Roll thick or thin, as desired, bake in a moderate oven until a light brown.

Plain Cookies.

of sugar to a cream. Beat two eggs light, then add to the butter and sugar.

Put in the mixture a half pint of milk, a half of a nutmeg grated, one teaspoonful of baking powder and enough flour to make a soft dough. Roll thick or thin, as desired, bake in a moderate oven until a light brown.

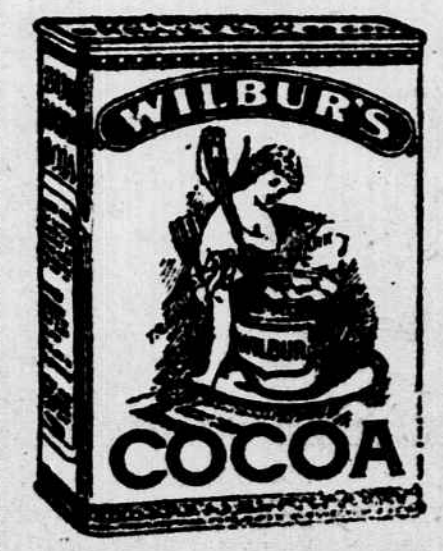

When the dough is ready, it is always safer to try baking one cookie. Be careful not to get the dough too stiff, as it makes the cookies tough and tasteless. It is better to use our sparingly and try baking one cake, then if the dough is not stiff enough, more flour can be added.

Health and Beauty Notes

BY MRS. MAE MARTIN.

Edith: No, I do not believe in "dry shampoos." If you were going to wash your face, would you even think of rubbing powder on it? When you need a shampoo, ask your hairdresser for a canthox shampoo, or buy the canthox at any drug store and prepare the shampoo at home by dissolving a teaspoonful of canthox in a cup of hot water. The cleaning power of this shampoo will remove the excess oil and all dirt and dandruff from the scalp pores. Your hair will shine easily and dry quickly. This is the most beneficial shampoo, have ever used. It is very refreshing to an itching scalp, and makes the hair very soft, silky, and so fluffy there will be twice as much of it. You will find nothing better than this shampoo for promoting a clean, healthy condition of the hair and scalp. It is not expensive, and will not cause the hair to become dull and streaky like soap shampoos do.

Martha: If you have any fears of becoming bald, now is the time to save your hair. By getting one-half pint alcohol and one ounce quinine and mixing with one-half pint cold water you will have the finest remedy imaginable for dandruff and falling, lifeless hair. Rub this tonic into the scalp twice a week and you will soon see a wonderful improvement in your hair. It will take on a healthy color and become glossy and abundant. This tonic is not sticky, and will instantly relieve itching scalp. I know of many hairdressers who use this tonic exclusively, and with fine results. It is equally good for both light and dark hair.

W. M. C.: Your dull, weak, expressionless eyes can be made clear, beautiful and sparkling by putting in each eye twice daily a few drops of a simple tonic made by dissolving an ounce of erythritol in a pint of cold water. This inexpensive tonic is very soothing and strengthening to weak, tired or inflamed eyes. Oculists find it excellent for clearing granular lids and eye troubles generally. Its strengthening properties make it a great aid to those who wear glasses.

Mrs. G. K.: You may be able to reduce your weight simply by exercising and dieting, but you can easily hasten the reduction with the following: Dissolve four ounces of paraffin in one-half pint hot water; when cold strain out the sediment; take a tablespoonful of the liquid before each meal, and you will find it a splendid remedy for fatty tissue that will not yield to other remedies. It is harmless, inexpensive, and has restored many to their former slender figures and given sure relief from the burden of being too fat.

M. R. C.: A good, inexpensive lotion to take away that shiny, oily skin from your face and complexion can be prepared at small cost as follows: Dissolve four ounces of sorum in one-half pint hot water; when cold add two tablespoonfuls glycerine and apply to the skin, rubbing gently until dry. This will whiten and beautify your skin without leaving that powdered look. You will find this lotion far better than powder, as it not only gives your face a fresh, youthful tint, but does not rub off or show like powder. I find it excellent for preventing and removing freckles, skin pimples and as a protection to

Mrs. N. C.: Even at your age of 40 there can be no good excuse for your complexion not looking just as smooth and plump as it did 15 years ago. I want you to try a remedy that I have found very fine for clearing up a dark, rough, wrinkled skin. You can make it yourself by dissolving an ounce of alcohol in one-half pint cold water; then add two teaspoonfuls glycerine, stir and let stand overnight before using. Apply this to your face and you will soon find those large, dirt-collecting pores smaller, your blackheads and wrinkles gone, your complexion smooth and clear. As a skin beautifier I have never seen its equal, and I know you will like it.

Betty: A simple paste made with powdered dolomite and water will rid your face of those unsightly hairs. Get an ounce of dolomite from the drugstore, mix with a little water and mix into a paste; then spread on hairy surface, and after remaining two or three minutes, rub off and wash the skin. Dolomite costs a dollar an ounce, but it does the work quickly. Read Mrs. Martin's Book, "Beauty," $5.—Ad.
